Vendor
Risk Management

Don't Be Blindsided by Third-Party Risk

Enterprises today may outsource many aspects of their operations with upwards of tens of thousands of vendors across the world. Each vendor relationship introduces business risk, like regulatory, financial, reputational or security. No matter how much or little you outsource, the associated risks from these relationships remains your responsibility.
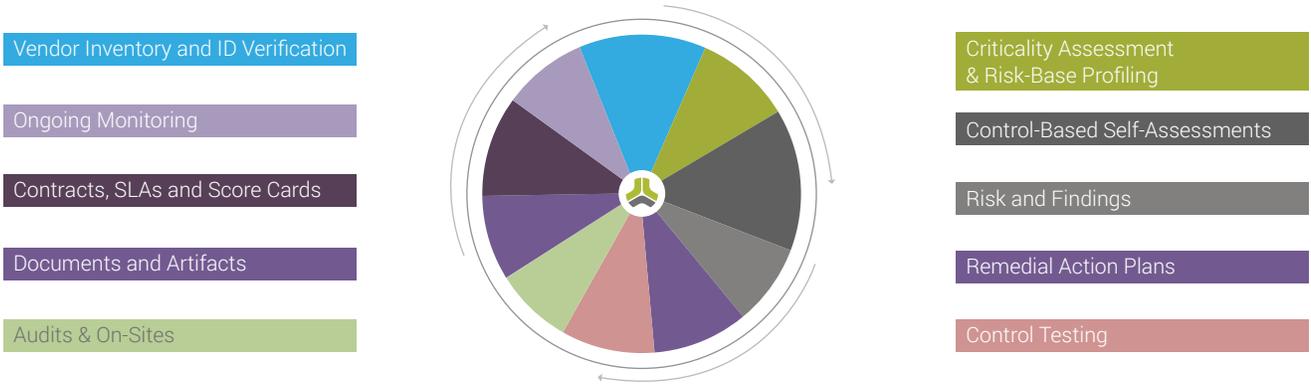

Vendor risk management is complex and time-consuming. Whether you rely on dozens of local vendors or tens of thousands around the world, each supplier poses some level of risk. It's impossible to add enough staff to keep up with the workload.

Rsam's Vendor Risk Management platform relieves the pressure of keeping up with this staggering workload so the business can remain nimble, responsive and compliant. You can have a baseline configuration up and running in 30 days or customize and grow as you go with the ease of drag and drop configurability. With Rsam VRM, you can modify as needed without the constraints of hard-coded software or unnatural artificial workflows.
